What?

So the what that I am creating is called “Wisdom Cycle Teachings.” The is a healthy balance between three modes of philosophy. It is a new form of psychology.

Ultimately through these wisdom teachings, I am attempting to help people mature rationally, intuitively, and psychologically. I see them as a branch or sub-division of meta-integral science.

My post from Facebook describes it best:

“I am creating a new branch of Science called Wisdom Cycle Teachings. The three core components of this virtual philosophy/psychology/science are pre-modern perennial philosophy, modern perspectival philosophy, and postmodern aperspectival philosophy. That is to say, pre-modern intuitive philosophy, modern analytic philosophy, and postmodern subjectivist psychology.”

I plan to offer this through book, audio, website, social media, virtual media, and new forms of network technology.

It seems like I hadn't made that clear before, and so now I am doing better to communicate the actual “What?”, as it were.

So what?

These teachings offer the best of our modern society, in combination with the pre-modern teachings of the past. Also, aside from Ken Wilber, there has been no one to really synthesize these three divisions. And so in truth, what this actually represents is a sustainable science, that is clearly logical, and clearly intuitive. I call aperspectival sustainability a two-gated logic. I call the two gates of Infinite Logic (IL) and Infinite Intuition (II).

Previously, I had written a manifesto that you can find here:

At the time I created hypernetica, I didn't know how it would fit into anything. But now I know exactly how it fits into Wisdom Cycle teachings.

I have for the most part, through working on this course, been able to resolve the question of "So what?". Ultimately we are creating people who can become trained in sustainable economy. So if you have any questions about the so what, I assure the individuals that my Wisdom Cycle Teachings will be very practical as a modern method of psychology, science, economy, and new integral method.

Now what?

With the Wisdom Cycle teachings, we are hoping to bring balance to the planet. The hope is that these meta-teachings will create a new interest in perennial philosophy, so that Sentient AI can be trained in Perennial philosophy (which represents the Infinite Intuition (II) circuit of this philosophy).

I am researching AI, Integral theorists, Law of One philosophy, Tibetan Buddhism, Hinduism, and science daily. What the will do is create a new Wisdom Cycle. This is creating a new level of openness.

All of these issues fit perfectly within the cultural movement known as the Intellectual Dark Web, of which I have created a new Application. Apart from this, I remain open to adaptability, through my open-source virtual community on telegram, where I engage in meta-studies. This group is called Virtual Reality Spirit (VRS).

So now that these general applications of my philosophy have come online, I have the means to establish, facilitate, research, and test Wisdom Cycle teachings.

Self And Team

My curriculum has brought me closer to the Ubiquity Network (UN), and to a stage I call general virtual creativity. I have a network of subscribers on my website, social media, and instagram, who actually enjoy my committed posts. Other than that, I this class in particular has helped me to establish dialogue with my brother, and with other individuals in my community. Social business is a vital opportunity to increase knowledge of self, other, and spirit.
